Selçuk is a captivating town that blends history, culture, and natural beauty. Time dances gently here, weaving ancient stories into the fabric of everyday life. Engage with the locals, who greet you with genuine warmth and share the vibrant tapestry of their traditions. Immerse your senses in the aromas and flavours of Turkish gastronomy as local delicacies please your taste buds. In Selçuk, authenticity paints the canvas of your journey, leaving indelible brushstrokes of wonder and discovery. As one of the oldest and most impressive works of architectural art from the Anatolian Beyliks, the İsa Bey Mosque was commissioned by Aydnöglü İsa Bey in 1375 and brought to life by Architect Ali. Incorporating elements from the ancient city of Ephesus and the Temple of Artemis, the mosque features a finely crafted marble mihrab and minbar, along with an uncommon transverse layout. Its arched courtyard and facade inspired later Ottoman mosque designs, making it a significant landmark blending Anatolian and Ottoman architectural influences.

The Artemis Temple, a sanctuary dedicated to Ephesian Artemis—originally an Anatolian mother goddess—evolved into one of the most influential and expansive sacred sites of the ancient world. Once revered as one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, this monumental structure stood as a beacon of worship, adorned with intricately carved sculptures and majestic marble columns. Though little remains today, the temple once drew pilgrims from across the Mediterranean, leaving behind echoes of its former grandeur. The Ephesus Museum in Selçuk makes history come alive with a playful twist. The museum is arranged according to various subjects and finding groups. From intricately detailed statues to ancient coins and fascinating everyday objects, each exhibit tells a captivating story.
